

Port Lockroy, Antarctica Assistant

Are you the person we are looking for?
Have you got what it takes?
Here is your opportunity to tell us why you should be part of our team.

Can you demonstrate that you have most or all of the following?:

- Hands on DIY/practical skills – can you use hand tools proficiently?
- Retail experience with good customer focus
- Good physical and medical fitness
- Confidence – can you give a talk without aids to 200 people?
- Coordination – can you carry a big heavy box over slippery rocks and slushy snow whilst dodging penguins?
- Outdoor/wild camping experience
- Practical knowledge of another language as well as English
- Competence and confidence with spreadsheet design and formulae
- Environmental awareness and practical knowledge of minimum impact living

Do you possess the following attributes?:

- Ability to get on with it. Can you identify what needs doing and get on and do it without having to be asked whether it be washing up, sweeping the floor or digging snow?
- Quick learner – can you take an instruction in person or in writing and get on and do it efficiently?
- Awareness of your surroundings/situation
- Initiative – can you think on your feet and act?
- Adaptability to different situations – Are you happy not to shower for up to a month, live in close proximity to three people and 1500 smelly penguins for five months?
- Sympathy – are you careful with things and people, do you treat things with respect when they are irreplaceable until the following season?

As well as being passionate about the Antarctic. You need to be:

- Personable – do you value getting on with others? Can you live and work with just three others for five months and be friendly and cooperative throughout?
- Positive – can you enthuse to visitors when it is -5C° and blowing a blizzard as well as cook supper cheerfully after a long cold day and very little sleep?
- Conscientious – will you be doing your best day in day out for 5 months?
- Meticulous – can you keep accurate records be it penguin eggs, tea shirts, or food stock?
- Logical
- Flexible
- Prepared to be on call and smiling for all waking hours, seven days a week
- Happy to be confined to a small island with no prospect of climbing the surrounding peaks

If you recognise yourself above then read on...

The Trust needs committed individuals (of any nationality) to make up a team of three or four to spend five months (Nov – March) running the shop, post office, maintenance and museum operation at Port Lockroy, on the tiny Goudier Island off the Antarctic Peninsula. The museum is visited each Austral summer by approx 15,000 ship-borne visitors amounting to two ship visits per day. During the short summer period approximately 70,000 items of mail are cancelled by hand before input into the British postal system. Goudier Island is also home to 1500 breeding gentoo penguins that nest all around the buildings.

An honorarium of between £1000 and £1500 per calendar month (dependent on experience) would be payable with expenses for the period of employment. Travel would be by commercial flight to South America thence cruise ship to the base. Living conditions are basic with no mains power, heat or water, and limited communications.